22 Nations Called To Europe Parley

By The Associated Press

PARIS, July 3—The French foreign office announced today that 22 nations will be invited to a meeting in Paris, July 12 to discuss European economic cooperation as outlined in the Marshall proposal.

The countries invited will include Austria, Turkey, Albania, Ireland and all former enemy states except Germany, it was announced. A foreign office spokesman said the invitations would be sent to Paris embassies tonight.

The French foreign ministry announced earlier a British-French decision to invite all European states, "with the provisional exception of Spain," to take part in drafting a program in which the resources and needs of each country will be coordinated, in a manner that each of the European countries will so decide freely."

The communique made no reference to Soviet Russia, nor to the failure yesterday of Russia, Britain and France to agree on the Marshall aid-Europe proposal.

Use of the term "provisional" in excluding Spain appeared to indicate that the final decision on whether Spain would permanently be outside any economic agreement reached would rest with an international "temporary organization" which the communique said the British and French proposed to establish.

Britain, France Confer

The British and French foreign ministers conferred at length this morning, emphasizing the break with Russia over the Marshall suggestion.

Soviet Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov, who declared yesterday that the program drafted by his British and French colleagues would divide Europe, winged his way back toward Moscow.

Britain's Ernest Bevin and France's Georges Bidault met at the French foreign ministry a few hours after Molotov took off.

Closeted with them were advisers who participated in the three-power conference which broke up in disagreement yesterday amid heated exchanges emphasizing the gap separating the British-French and Russians views on the future of Europe.

The meeting roused considerable speculation as to whether the eastern European countries—those along the fringes of Russia—would join Britain and France in participation for economic recovery without the Soviet Union, or whether they would go along with Russia and stay outside.

Takes No Note of Russia

The communique called on the European countries to "draw up a European reconstruction pro-

TRAIN HITS TRUCK PARKED NEAR TRACK

Cab Torn Off and Thrown Against Parked Car.

A Conless Food Product Co. truck was demolished and a parked car owned by the truck driver, Robert E. Jones of 143 Mill street, was damaged considerably at 9:03 p. m. last night when an eastbound freight train hit the truck while it was parked too close to the tracks on Mill street. The collision tore the cab off the truck and hurled it to the Mill street sidewalk, police reported today.

According to police, Jones had driven the truck to get another load from the garage. He heard the train coming but was too late to get the truck away from the tracks before the engine struck. He jumped into the clear before the collision. The truck was driven into the parked car by the impact damaging it considerably.

Police officials said the freight train, enroute to Kent, consisted of two engines and a caboose. The Marion crew included: W. C. Aiken, engineer; G. D. Riley, conductor; W. E. McMurray, fireman and J. W. Conkel, head brakeman.

Recognition of Foremen Withdrawn by Ford Co.

By The Associated Press

DETROIT, July 3—The Ford Motor Co., today withdrew its recognition of the Foreman's Association of America, an independent union, as bargaining agent for striking supervisory employes.

In a letter to Robert H. Keys, union president, John S. Bugas, vice president and director of Ford industrial relations, said:

"Our experience with the Foremen's Association of America has led us to the conclusion that management unions in this company are unsound in principle."

LEWIS NEARS BEST TERMS IN UMW'S HISTORY

Pact Signed with Some Operators Gives Miners 44½ Cent Boost.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, July 3—John L. Lewis is well on the way today toward getting the best wage contract in the history of his United Mine Workers—who otherwise would extend their current vacation into a full-blown strike next Tuesday.

The way some operators figure the tentative settlement reached late yesterday by Lewis and top executives of "big steel" mine owners and northern commercial producers, the soft coal diggers will get a 44½ cent boost in their basic hourly pay rate.

The "pattern" increases negotiated by rival CIO unions in other basic industries earlier this year have been around 15 cents an hour.

Big Question Looms

The big question remaining, however, is:

How many mining companies will accept the agreement?

It is no secret that a big segment of the industry was staggered by the concessions made to Lewis by the eastern producers.

The midwest, far west and southern mine owners—left out of the secret, top-level settlement negotiations — went into hurried huddles to map their strategy before the UMW policy committee assembles here Saturday.

Some of these operators described the proposed contract as "highly inflationary." They contend it would boost not only the price of coal but of steel and dozens of other items essential to the national economy.

The fact remained, however, that if the tentative settlement is signed and sealed by a major chunk of the industry, the other producers will have to capitulate or face an extended shutdown.

Deadline Is July 8

The government last Monday turned back to private ownership the mines it seized 13 months ago.

4 Countries Caught in Middle Of Russ-West European Split

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER
Associated Press Diplomatic Reporter

WASHINGTON, July 3—Four nations—Poland, France, Italy and Czechoslovakia—appear destined today to get caught in the middle of the expected conflict between Russia and the western powers over the economic organization of Europe under the Marshall plan.

The breakdown of the Paris conference yesterday and Soviet Foreign Minister Molotov's assertion that the Marshall proposal means the division of Europe left little doubt among diplomatic authorities here that such a conflict would develop.

They said it would have repercussions in every part of the continent but that the squeeze almost certainly would be most intense in four countries for these reasons:

Poland—The Polish government already has notified the state department of its adherence to the Marshall plan. Yet Poland is in the Soviet's sphere of influence, and Russian troops operate there in support of their occupation forces in Germany.

Great Need of Help

Poland is in great need of American help and is especially eager to get direct relief at once. She faces a grain deficit of 200,000 by October. If Molotov's Paris statement is taken at face value, the Soviet government is expected to turn thumbs down on Polish economic cooperation with the west despite the economic interests of the Polish people.

France—As one of the co-sponsors with Britain of the European effort to develop a joint economic program, France is a key point in the organization of western Europe. It is also the home of a powerful Communist party. Thus if the party, as expected, follows the Moscow line and opposes the Marshall plan, the French government probably will find itself faced with an extremely difficult internal political situation.

Czechoslovakia—The Czechs have not gone as far as the Poles in announcing cooperation with the Marshall plan. But they have expressed deep interest here and in Prague, and indications are they would prefer to cooperate. Like Poland, Czechoslovakia is in the Soviet sphere but without Soviet troops. Russian opposition to a line of action which the Czechs believe to be in their own economic interests would cause great trouble in that country.

Italy—The Italian government like the French was reorganized last spring without Communist participation. But the Communist party is strong and in a position to bring powerful opposition against any government policy it disapproves. If Moscow so orders, it might try to make Italian participation in organized European recovery relatively ineffective.

American officials expressed themselves as more disappointed than surprised at Molotov's refusal to cooperate with Foreign Ministers Bidault and Bevin behind a program of reconstruction with American assistance.

Hopes Dashed

Some had hoped for, at least limited Soviet participation or, failing that, a Soviet attitude which would not seek to preclude cooperation by such countries as Poland. The basic theory of officials in this connection was that the more comprehensive a recovery program could be made the greater would be the resources upon which it could draw and the more probable its chances for success.

There is no doubt here, however, that the United States government is prepared to make good—to the best of its ability—on Marshall's promise at Harvard university June 5 that if the European nations would produce a joint program the United States would support it so far as possible.

Student at O. S. U. Admits $31,250 Holdup of Akron Rubber Company

By The Associated Press

AKRON, O., July 3—A 27-year-old pre-medical student, who said he staged a $31,250 holdup at the Goodrich plant here June 24 to secure funds for his education and to start his practice, was charged with highway robbery today and ordered held under $10,000 bond.

Apologizing to photographers for his uncombed hair, the student, Roy C. Blackburn, entered a technical plea of not guilty when arraigned before Municipal Judge Abner D. Zook.

Calm and polite, he readily signed a statement in which he told how he staged the holdup while a paymaster and guard were moving from the first to the second floor of the plant in an elevator.

Blackburn, a student at Ohio State university, was arrested in a rooming house in Columbus last night. He told Detective Sgt. William E. Donner of the Columbus police force there "was enough money in it to pay for my entire medical education and to finance the start of my practice."

The good-looking, six-foot, one-inch, student left his job in the research department of Goodrich to enroll in the university June 16. With the exception of a year spent in the army, he had worked for the concern since 1942.

He said in his statement he entered the plant with 6 p. m. shift, went to his old locker to which he still had a key and put on coveralls and a shirt and cap. He reported he had planned the robbery for three weeks.

"There were no bullets in the gun I had and I didn't even try to buy any because I knew I didn't have the nerve to shoot anybody," he added.

He reported the paymaster and guard he trapped on the elevator shoved the money in paper bags he had so hard they fell apart and so he hid the funds in a sawdust bag pile.

Walks from Plant

Despite an alarm that was sounded, he left the plant without being detected.

"But I wanted that money," his statement continued, "and so I went back in the plant with the midnight shift and grabbed all the payroll envelopes I could carry in my pockets."

He said he put the money in his pockets in a washroom, flushed the envelopes down a toilet and left the plant again.

Donner reported that he and Lt. Gilbert Mosley of the Akron police force and Detective Stacy Hall of Columbus recovered $600 in cash, $9,000 in government bonds and a bank book showing a balance of $1,000, when they made the arrest.

Goodrich officials reported $31,250 was taken, but that $19,600 was recovered. Still in pay envelopes, the money was found hidden in various locations about the main plant.

Money Spilled Out

"I carried a paper sack and when I made them put the pay envelopes into the sack, they pushed it too hard so that it broke soon after I made my escape," Donner quoted Blackburn as saying.

The holdup occurred at 8:10 p. m., as shifts were changing. The paymaster and guard were moving from the first floor to the second floor when a man clad in an army fatigue uniform confronted them in the elevator. He took the money and told the two men and the elevator operator not to follow him as he left. They sounded an alarm and the plant gates were closed.

Blackburn told the officers who arrested him that he hid in the plant and then walked out with the workmen. Police here said he had been employed in the plant until shortly before the holdup.

DELICATE OPERATION SAVES GALION BOY'S LIFE

Fragment of Exploded Cartridge Removed from Near Heart.

Special to The Star

GALION, July 3—Jack Stuit, nine-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. John C. Stuit of Lake Galion is in good condition at City hospital, after delicate surgery Wednesday to remove a fragment of a .38 caliber bullet that lodged in his chest against projective covering one-sixteenth inch from the heart.

Jack found an unexploded bullet in a trash pile while playing with children at Lake Galion. He placed the shell in a vise and struck it with a hammer, causing it to explode. The tips of two fingers on his left hand were burned, and fragments entered his chest. He only escaped death because a rib apparently deflected the fragment and caused it to spend its full force, physicians said.

HOUSE POSTPONES NEW TAX DECISION

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, July 3 — The house ways and means committee agreed to postpone until the afternoon its showdown vote on the new $4,000,000,000 tax slashing measure for 48,000,000 million taxpayers.

The Republican majority consented to the delay on a request by Democrats for a little time to study the legislation.

The bill differs from the measure vetoed by President Truman June 16 only in a change of the effective date from July 1 to next Jan. 1.

Chairman Knutson (R-Minn) told reporters: "we will approve the measure this afternoon."

Speaker Martin (R-Mass) has forecast passage of the bill by the house next Tuesday. A house vote has been set for that date.

Rep. Doughton (D-NC), ranking Democrat on the committee, requested the delay after the committee had considered the new measure for an hour behind closed doors.

Knutson commented that the decision by Republican leaders to go ahead with the new tax bill "apparently took many members by surprise."

Some Democrats predicted that Mr. Truman again would veto the tax legislation and doubts arose that the senate would over-ride a second presidential objection.

OHIO JOINS IN AIRLINE ACTION

State Aviation Board Takes Hand in Plan Involving Marion, Other Cities.

The Ohio aviation board has adopted a policy of active support to replace a "hands off" policy in regard to feeder airlines applications for service in Ohio now pending before the civil aeronautics board, according to an International News Service dispatch from Columbus.

Marion is included on a route proposed by Trans-Ohio Airlines, Inc. for service between Toledo and Huntington, W. Va. Mayor Harry L. Dowler and representatives of the aviation committee of the Chamber of Commerce have appeared before the CAB in Washington to present Marion's argument for air service.

At its regular meeting the board directed C. E. A. Brown, head of the Ohio board, to write Chairman James M. Landis of the CAB requesting he consider seriously the present applications for feeder airlines routes through Ohio.

The board in its decision took the stand that Ohio's industrial importance in the nation, its large population and its many cities indicated that the requested routes should be certified for trial operation.

Position Reversed

The action of the OAB reversed to some degree a previous position taken in February. At that time the board decided not to enter into discussions on pending route applications because it did not have the time, the money or the personnel to present the state's position adequately.

Current applications under consideration by the CAB include:

▶Columbus as an intermediate stop on the Transcontinental & Western air route between Dayton and Toledo.

▶Operation of a route by Great Lakes Airlines, Inc., between Cleveland and Columbus, via Canton-Massillon, Wooster, Ashland-Mansfield and Mt. Vernon and another route between Pittsburgh and St. Louis to include stops at Steubenville, Wheeling, Cambridge, Zanesville, Newark, Columbus, Springfield and Dayton.

▶Operation of a route by Roscoe Turner Aeronautical Corp. between Indianapolis and Cincinnati via Selbyville and Connorsville, Ind., and Hamilton.

▶Operation of a route by Trans-Ohio Airlines, Inc., between Detroit and Huntington, W. Va., via Toledo, Findlay, Lima, Piqua, Dayton, Middletown, Cincinnati and Portsmouth; also between Toledo and Huntington, via Tiffin-Fostoria, Marion, Delaware, Columbus, Lancaster and Chillicothe; and also between Toledo and Huntington, via Sandusky, Lorain-Eylria, Cleveland, Alliance-Salem, East Liverpool, Pittsburgh, Washington, Wheeling and Parkersburg, W. Va., and Gallipolis.

▶Operation of a helicopter route by the Yellow Cab Co. of Cleveland, Inc., between Cleveland airport and downtown Cleveland and between Cleveland airport and Euclid, via Shaker square.

One member of the board said that, although such service is commonly known as "feeder" service, it actually amounted to local transportation.

The board took the position with favor on adequate transportation facilities throughout the state" and it felt that feeder service should be tried to provide such facilities.

Among other matters discussed was the action of the general assembly in cutting the board's appropriations for the 1947-1948

EX-SOLON SOLD HIS INFLUENCE, JURY RULES

Conviction Carries Possibility of 6 Years in Jail, Fine of $30,000.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, July 3—Ex-Congressman Andrew J. May was convicted today of selling his influence while wartime chairman of the house military committee.

A federal court jury also convicted munitions makers Henry and Murray Garsson of paying the 72-year old former Kentucky congressman more than $50,000 in bribes for favors during the war years.

The three defendants received the verdict calmly. All had relatives near them in the court room.

Reach Verdict Quickly

The jury deliberated only an hour and 50 minutes before reaching its verdict, climax of a trial that lasted 11 weeks.

Announcement of the verdict's however, was delayed more than 20 minutes while court officials were assembled.

Foreman George E. Wells solemnly answered "guilty" to each of the three counts in the indictment, which charged that May took money for interceding at the war department for the $70,000,000 Garsson munitions combine.

All Jurors Agree

In response to a defense request, each of seven men and five women jurors was polled on his decision.

Each juror replied "guilty" to each of the three counts against each of the three defendants.

The court deferred sentence until later to give the defense an opportunity for appeal notions.

May Get 6 Years

The maximum penalty would be a sentence of six years in prison and $30,000 fine.

Charles J. Margiotti, head of the defense counsel, said he would appeal within five days.

At that time, he told the court, he will file a motion for a judgment of acquittal, irrespective of the jury's decision, a motion for arrested judgment, and a motion for a new trial.

Margiotti's request was granted and trial Justice Henry A. Schweinhaut said that bail for the defendants will be continued, "until this matter is settled."

"Round One," Says May

May licked his lips several times as the jury was being polled and at the conclusion remarked to reporters:

"Well, this is the end of round one."

Murray Garsson said vehemently, "I'm still not guilty!" His brother Henry declined to make any comment.

A fourth defendant, Joseph F. Freeman, Washington agent for the $70,000,000 Garsson munitions combine, won a bench-directed acquittal mid-way in the lengthy trial.

May's Home Town Stunned by Trial News

By The Associated Press

PRESTONSBURG, Ky., July 3—Prestonsburg's reaction to the conviction of former Rep. Andrew J. May today of selling his influence as wartime chairman of the house military committee was mixed regret and indignation.

Police Chief Epp Lafferty, a Republican but a friend of many years standing of the former Democratic congressman, said:

"I hardly believe it (the conviction). Everybody here feels hurt about it."

Lafferty expressed hope an appeal would be successful and said of May:

"He'll stay with 'em. He's got guts."

Mayor E. P. Arnold, Democrat, a patient in a Huntington, W. Va., hospital, said: "It's a miscarriage of justice. He is not guilty."

Norman Allen, weekly newspaper editor: "I regret it very much."

R. G. Francis, Democrat and a department store operator: "People are kind of stunned. They hoped for a different decision.

Hungary Kept Alive By American Gold Train

By HAL BOYLE
Associated Press Writer

NEW YORK—The new Communist custodians of ancient Hungary took over a country rescued from financial chaos by a $35,000,000 train ride with Uncle Sam at the throttle.

Hal Boyle

The followers of the hammer and sickle, now in power, have conveniently overlooked that little detail, but some among the Hungarian masses must remember.

It was right out of a Hollywood script—that train ride last August that saved Hungary from total collapse by the timely return of its entire gold reserve—22 tons of the precious metal.

I was the only reporter aboard the train, and I'd like to tell a few angles about the trip that weren't pointed out at the time.

The Hungarian government's store of gold had been captured by the American Third army in Austria, and removed to Frankfurt for safekeeping. When the Hungarian pengo soared to fantastic inflationary levels, it became evident that only solid money could save the country. The American government agreed to return the Hungarian gold reserve to back a new currency—the florin.

Wanted Open Window

The hope was that by this act America could keep "a window open to the west" in this Russian-occupied nation.

The gold was loaded aboard three baggage cars at Frankfurt. There was a kind of victory symbolism in the train itself. It had been built by Adolf Hitler as a present to Benito Mussolini but taken over by the Fuehrer for his own use after he decided his Italian ally no longer deserved expensive favors.

There were 33 American military guards aboard the train.

Several times during the journey Dr. Nicolas Nyardi, then an undersecretary in the Hungarian ministry of finance, went into the baggage cars to be sure the gold hadn't fallen out on the tracks. He was still dazed that every ounce was being returned.

"Grateful to U. S."

"We are very grateful to the American government," he said. "This is the first step toward Hungary's reconstruction."

Our trip was supposed to be a deep secret, but once we crossed the Hungarian border crowds lined the train at every station. They knew that the gold we brought again would give them a money that had meaning.

But at one way stop a middle-aged Hungarian asked us:

"Why are you bringing back our gold now? You are only handing it over to the Russians."

We assured him that the gold would be turned over to the Hungarian government itself, not to occupying Soviet officials, and he merely shrugged and said:

"No matter who you deliver it to, the Russians will get it out through the back door."

Russian Engineer Stalls

The train was repeatedly delayed by the Russian engineer who had taken over at the border. He gave no reason for the halts. We reached Budapest at dusk, several hours behind schedule.

"It is a simple mystery," said one of the Hungarian officials aboard. "The Russians had no intention of letting you arrive in broad daylight, when the whole city could see you Americans bringing us our gold."

And Communist newspapers in the capital in inspired articles immediately told the Hungarian population that only strong Soviet pressure had brought return of the gold reserve.

The happy Hungarians threw us a party and gave everybody a bundle of the vanished pengoes as souvenirs. Then we went right back where we came from—and there were no train delays on the way out.

Well, anyway it was a nice ride, the scenery was lovely and now the Hungarian Communist government has 22 tons of pure capitalistic gold in its proletarian treasury. But they sure drew down the shade on the window looking west.

Nab Hospital Escapee In Park at Mansfield

By The Associated Press

MANSFIELD, O., July 3—Clifford Allen Smith, 18, of Mansfield, who escaped June 1 from the Lima State Hospital for the Criminal Insane, was captured by city police in a park yesterday.

Smith told officers that he had escaped from the King's Daughters hospital at Frankfort, Ky., Sunday, after being captured in that city June 9. Officers here said Smith was hampered by a bullet wound in his leg which he had when captured in Kentucky, but that they did not know how he received the wound.

Police said they were tipped to Smith's presence in town by an anonymous telephone caller.

YOUR HEALTH

By HERMAN BUNDESEN, M.D.

Mild Symptoms

Infectious polyneuritis is a disease which begins innocently but goes on to a serious ending, with final symptoms much like those of infantile paralysis. Indeed the two disorders are similar in many ways. Both are caused by viruses, the smallest and least-understood of all disease-producing organisms; both affect the nerves and both result in paralysis of the muscles.

The two diseases time their attacks differently, however, infantile paralysis occurring chiefly during the late summer and fall, polyneuritis during the colder months of winter. Children are the most usual victims of the first; grown-ups of the latter.

In the beginning ploneuritis appears to be nothing more serious than a cold or an attack of grippe. There are mild aches and pains, usually in the calves of the legs and back. There also may be headache. Within a few days up to several weeks, the nervous system symptoms make their appearance. There may be muscle and nerve tenderness, numbness and tingling. Then, after a few hours, or perhaps as long as a week, disturbances of the muscles, that is, paralysis, develop.

The course of the infectious polyneuritis varies to a great extent. In general, it may proceed from two to four weeks, or may last as long as three years. Recovery is usually slow, and the nerves regain their function in the same order in which the function was lost. Occasionally, recovery occurs quite rapidly.

In children, the outlook for complete recovery is good. In adults, if the muscles between the ribs, or those of the abdomen or diaphragm, which is located between the chest and abdomen, is affected, the outlook is less hopeful.

As a general rule, this disorder is not a difficult one to diagnose, and examination of the fluid from the spine is helpful. It shows an increase in the protein substances present.

In treating infectious polyneuritis, the patient should be completely at rest, and given plenty of fluids and proper foods. Various pain-relieving drugs may be employed if necessary. After the acute symptoms have cleared up, exercises and massage are of particular benefit. A product known as prostigmin has also been used and seems to be helpful in some cases.

It may be necessary to have splints put on the arms and legs in some instances to prevent contracting of paralyzed muscles.

Car Makers See Little Chance Of Meeting 6-Month Schedule

By DAVID J. WILKE
Associated Press Automotive Editor

DETROIT, July 3—The automobile industry, which filled none of its schedules during the first half of this year, appears to have a fight on its hands to meet any of them for six months ahead.

Figures the car and truck factories of the United States built 2,400,000 vehicles from Jan. 1 to June 30 this year; it built 2,700,000 in the second half of 1946.

Prospects for an adequate supply of materials little better than they were six months ago.

Most of the car manufacturers still hope that the year will produce 5,000,000 units assembled; but I believe the total will be closer to 4,700,000 and include 600,000 trucks.

No Catch-Up Seen

The 300,000 thus left as the deficit of passenger car output will not catch up with the huge backlog of orders on the records, which apparently is destined to grow as great today as it was a year ago.

There will be some disturbance to the automobile economy the backlog of unfilled orders apparently is destined to build up indefinitely; it does not mean there has been any limitation on experimental work or proving ground tests. These activities have been going on for weeks and actual commitments to the tool and die making concerns could be made almost any time in the planning for new model production about six months hence.

Uncertainty regarding the plans of competitors undoubtedly has figured in the delay to equipment contracting.

With the continuing trend toward larger and roomier car bodies, rumor has it that V-8 type motors will be more widely used in some of the medium and higher priced models—even among some that heretofore have held steadfastly to straight eight engines. More body interior space can be borrowed from the area occupied by the power plant if V-8's are substituted for the eight-in-line engines.

6-Cylinder Ford

Gossip concerning Ford's plans for the Ford passenger car, however, persists that a new six-cylinder engine will be brought out along with an advanced eight.

Whatever may be the merit of the guessing about new model planning it is quite generally accepted now that marked changes in car engines will be made in most 1948 models.

Major changes, such as now are indicated, will mean an assembly line shutdown of up to three weeks in many cases before the new units can go into production. That probability undoubtedly is being counted upon by the manufacturers when they estimate 1947 output of passenger cars will not go over 3,600,000.

If the January date for new models materializes there will be little car production during December of this year.

many of the fortunate ones who obtained delivery of 1946 or 1947 models will be back in the market for 1948 cars.

It long has been industry tradition that the introduction of new models gives a tremendous impetus to car demand. The industry probably will not need such stimulus but it will get it, nevertheless, some time after Jan. 1, when most new models are expected to come out.

Orders for new tooling equipment are reported to be shaping up for early placement with the tool and die shops.

The Picnic Was a "Hug" Success!

Our local Wild Life League went on a picnic Saturday, and I went along to cover it for the Clarion. Monday, folks kept stopping me, and saying: "Must have gotten out of hand, that picnic!"

"Nonsense," I says. "It was mighty pleasant and congenial. Just beer and hot dogs, cheese and pickles." And then they show me the headline reading: "WILD WIFE PICNIC HUG SUCCESS."

Of course it was Elmer, my typesetter, who had made the misprints: But is my face red! It's only because folks are so temperate and well-behaved in our town, that they could afford to take the whole thing as a joke.

From where I sit, even a newspaper editor's entitled to a few mistakes. And since I reported that they served a moderate beverage like beer, I'm sure nobody thinks the picnic was the least bit wild, or anything but a huge success—and I mean huge!

Ignorance Of Business Hit

Institute Says "Economic Illiteracy" Cause of Much Labor Strife.

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, July 3—The average American has little knowledge of the facts of business life, and the resultant "economic illiteracy" is a constant source of labor-management friction, Research Institute of America, Inc., said today.

For this condition, William J. Casey, chairman of the institute's board of editors, said the business community itself was mainly responsible.

"It has got got across to the public for a proper understanding of the part that management, investment, profits and dividends play in building living standards," he declared.

Recent public opinion surveys, he continued, show that 60 per cent of the public thinks that corporate profits exceed 25 cents out of every sales dollar.

"Many of these are annoyed because profits are so high. They feel that 10 per cent would be a fair profit.

They might have an entirely different attitude if there was a widespread understanding that profits over the years under 4 cents out of every sales dollar, in good years run up to 6 cents, while in bad years go down to 2 cents or even disappears."

The survey shows that most workers think that out every corporate dollar spent for wages, salaries and dividends, 75 cents goes either to management or stockholders.

"The fact is that after paying for materials and all other outside bills, workers get 87 cents and management about 13 cents in dividends and reserves out of every dollar that is left," Casey declared.

In prepared statements followed by informal discussions of the effects of the Taft-Hartley law, institute editors predicted a year of unrest.

"Legislation is no substitute for sound human relations," they said. "The most it can do is define machinery for relationships, but it can never create or define the content of those relationships. A law may forbid a worker to walk out on his job, but it cannot make him happy and productive on the job."

Galion C. E. Members Given State Offices

GALION, July 3—Two members of the Christian Endeavor society of First Reformed church received state recognition when they were chosen to offices at the annual Ohio Christian Endeavor convention last week in New Philadelphia. Miss Elaine Berry was elected state music superintendent and Elwood Christman was chosen member-at-large of the executive committee. The Crawford county group received three awards for the highest percentage of registration in the state. Attending the convention from Galion and Crawford county were Donald and Louella Shifley, Richard Elliker, Mildred Cronenwett, Phyllis Ziegler and Wanda Young.

At the annual meeting of the Free Methodist church held this week in the church, the following officers were elected: superintendent of Y. P. M. S., William Probst; superintendent of the Sunday school, Elsie Ketchum; trustees, Jesse Pugh, Palmer Hall, Earl Hall and Edward Hall; stewards, Elsie Ketchum, Mrs. Ada Hall, Miss Dorothy Sloop and Mrs. Charlotte Hall; director of Christian Youth Crusade, Duane Hall; delegates to the annual conference which will open July 28 at the church camp grounds, southeast of Mansfield, George Adams and Mrs. Mary E. Hall. Rev. L. E. Guffey presided for the meeting. He is finishing his first year as pastor of the Free Methodist church.

Delegates and alternates were chosen to attend the National Convention in Cleveland in September, when Galion Post No. 4329, Veterans of Foreign Wars, held its regular meeting Tuesday night. The delegates will be Robert Quinn, Joe Tuscan and Commander Glenard Walnum, while the alternates chosen are Paul Schneegelsberger, Kenneth Deisch and John Kruger.

Picnic Honors Scoutrs' "Widows and Orphans"

Some 100 'widows and orphans" of scouters Sunding attended the first picnic held at Camp John A. Owens in honor of the families. Games for all ages were played including the scouters teaching wives to tie various knots. The wives surprised their respective spouses by becoming usually adept on short notice.

Arrangements for the picnic, which is to become a regular event, were in charge of Marion district scout commissioners. Mrs. Charles Smith was in charge of the various games and contests. Refreshments were served later in the main dining hall.

Galion Council Hears Power Plant Report

Special to The Star

GALION, July 3—Progress on the improvements and repairs at the Galion Municipal Light and Power plant was reported at the regular meeting of city council Tuesday night. The city's major industries are on vacation this week to make it possible to cut power in order to make the improvements.

It was stated that the number one turbine which is being overhauled at the plant had not been damaged by water and steam, a theory which had previously been advanced. Two crews of workmen from the Babcock-Wilcox Co., Barberton, are connecting number three boiler with an economizer. It is expected that the work will be completed in time for the manufacturers to resume full production Monday morning, July 7.

Council passed an ordinance directing the Public Service Director to advertise for and receive bids to enter into the necessary contracts for equipment and materials in erecting flood lights in the East Side playground.

Marriage licenses issued in June this year lagged far behind the total issued during the same month last year, according to probate court records. A total of 55 licenses was issued in the traditional bridal month this year, while 79 couples were granted licenses in June last year.

The total for the first six months of this year is behind the total at the end of June last year. So far this year 267 licenses have been issued. The figure for the first six months of 1946 was 370. Last year's 12-month total was 741.

Although June is traditionally the month of weddings, records show that more licenses were granted during August last year than during any other month. The August total was 83.

Marriages during June far outnumbered divorce, according to records compiled in the office of Calvin Oborn, clerk of courts. Of 24 divorce cases acted on during the month 21 were granted, 11 to husbands and 10 to wives. Three cases were dismissed. Twenty petitions for divorce were filed in June.

Custody of 11 children was granted to mothers as a result of divorce action, and fathers were given custody of three. One child was given into the custody of the Welfare society. Two names were changed as a result of divorce action.

Committee Issues Warning Against July 4th Hazards

In its campaign to promote public safety, the fire prevention committee of the Marion Chamber of Commerce joins in the nationwide plea for a safe and sane Fourth of July. The committee today issued this message to the people of Marion and vicinity:

Independence day has always been a big day in the lives of the American people, and will no doubt continue to be so. It is a great day of joy and happiness, but by thoughtlessness and carelessness, it can also be a day of destructiveness.

There will probably be a good many fireworks this year, and although they are beautiful, they can cause a lot of trouble. Parents, show your children how and where to light fireworks and warn them of the dangers they hold.

There will be a lot of traffic this year, so if you plan to take a trip drive carefully in order to save lives.

Let's all help to keep this Fourth of July free from fires, injuries, and loss of lives.

OILY HAIR?
Eminent Practitioner Suggests This Simple Care

Dr. C. E. Shiffer, Licensed by Ohio State Medical Board, (Cosmetic Therapy)

An oily scalp requires more frequent shampooing. But dermatologists agree that shampoos containing alcohol, free alkalies and harsh ingredients only irritate the scalp, making the oily condition even worse.

Unlike ordinary shampoos, Dr. Shiffer's Special 101 Formula Shampoo can be used often as needed without harming the most delicate scalp. Specially compounded to give gentle cleansing it works into a rich lather in hard or soft water. A quick rinse leaves the hair and scalp refreshed and thoroughly clean. For additional protection between shampoos Dr. Shiffer's Hair and Scalp Conditioner is recommended.

"At all drug and department stores. If you are not completely satisfied, return the unused portion direct to Dr. Shiffer and he will refund your money immediately."

Weddings

Announcement is being made of the marriage of Miss Marian Lucile Lake, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Lake of near Shelby, to Marvin Eugene Wolbert, son of Mrs. Esta Wolbert of Marion. The ceremony was read Saturday at 4 o'clock in the afternoon in the Lutheran church at Plymouth by Rev. M. Paetznick.

The bride chose for her wedding a two-piece dress of white linen with which she wore a white straw hat with a white veil and brown and white accessories. Her jewelry was a necklace and bracelet, a gift from the bridegroom, and she wore a corsage of red rosebuds. Her only attendant was her sister-in-law, Mrs. Warren Lake. She wore a light blue floral print dress of silk crepe with white accessories and a corsage of white carnations. Warren Lake, brother of the bride, served as best man.

A reception at the home of the bride's parents for members of the immediate families followed the ceremony. Bouquest of roses and garden flowers decorated the rooms, and the bride's table was centered with a three-tiered wedding cake topped with a miniature bride and bridegroom. Upon their return from a trip to Niagara Falls and other points of interest, the couple will reside for the present with the bridegroom's mother.

Mrs. Wolbert was graduated from Tiro High school in 1946, and Mr. Wolbert attended Marion schools.

Guests at the reception were from Shelby, Tiro, Richwood and Marion.

The number of U. S. farms shrank from 6.4 million in 1920 to 5.8 million in 1945.

Miss Dilsaver And K. L. Sasse Wed

The LaRue Methodist church was the scene of the wedding, Sunday afternoon, of Miss Clarabell Dilsaver, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Dilsaver of near LaRue, and Karl L. Sasse, son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Sasse of Whitehouse, Ohio.

Their marriage vows were repeated at 2:45 o'clock as Rev. Clyde Hutchison, pastor, read the double ring ceremony assisted by Rev. Lloyd Holloway, pastor of Maumee Methodist church. The custom of open church was observed.

White lilies surrounded by banks of pink and red roses decorated the altar. Seven-branch candelabra held tapers which were lighted by Mrs. William Brown of Richwood. A half-hour organ music prelude was played by Miss Lena Dale Mulvaine. The numbers included "Oh Promise Me," "Ah, Sweet Mystery of Life," "Schubert's Serenade," "Indian Love Call," "Always," "Sunshine of Your Smile," "Oh Perfect Love," and "My Hero." "My God and I" was the music during the ceremony. Soloist was Mrs Herbert Moore, who sang "Because," "Oh Perfect Love," "I Love You Truly," and "The Lord's Prayer." The Lohengrin wedding march was played as the bridal procession came down the aisle.

The bride, escorted to the altar by her father, wore a gown of white net over satin. Her full skirt was accented with a lace peplum, and the three-quarter length sleeves were trimmed with matching lace. The fingertip veil of illusion fell from a white bonnet trimmed with lace and orange blossoms. A bouquet of white roses with white satin streamers was carried by the bride. Her jewelry was a cameo necklace, a gift of the bridegroom, and a gold bracelet which belonged to her mother.

Miss Frances Dilsaver, sister of the bride, was maid of honor. Her gown was of pink marquisette, and she carried a bouquet of pink roses. The flower girl, Judy Lahman of Bowling Green, wore a white satin dress made by the bride. Her basket was filled with pink roses and was trimmed with pink satin ribbon. Her headdress matched that of the maid of honor.

Charles Taylor of Maumee served as best man, and ushers were Raymond Dilsaver, brother of the bride, and William Sasse of Maumee, brother of the bridegroom.

For her daughters wedding, Mrs Dilsaver chose a powder blue dress with white accessories and a corsage of American Beauty roses. Mrs Sasse wore a dress of old rose color with white accessories and a corsage of Dr. Van-Fleet roses. Mrs. Harry Cook of Mt. Victory, maternal grandmother of the bride, was costumed in a grey flowered dress with which she wore black accesories and a corsage of American Beauty roses. She was accompanied by Mr Cook

Approximately 80 relatives and friends attended a bridal reception which was held at the home of the bride's parents southwest of LaRue, immediately following the ceremony. The table was decorated in pink and white, centered with a three-tier bridal cake topped with miniature bride and bridegroom.

For her traveling costume, Mrs Sasse wore a grey wool suit with red accessories. Her corsage of white roses was taken from the center of her wedding bouquet. After a short trip, Mr. and Mrs. Sasse will make their home near Maumee.

Mrs. Sasse is a graduate of LaRue High school, class of 1942, and attended Bowling Green State university two years. Her husband is a graduate of Monclova High school, 1937, and served overseas in the U. S. Army in World War II.

CONOMY AX HITS 14 TAX COLLECTORS

Associated Press

July 3—The con- ay ax is hitting ected an average s for Uncle Sam taxpayers last collector of internal revenue for the 28-county central Ohio district, said today that the $20,000,000 cut in appropriations for the tax-collecting bureau left over the country meant a loss of 47 positions in all of his offices—29 of them in the enforcement division which goes after delinquent taxes.

Actually the cut means letting only 14 of the enforcement division go since there were 15 unfilled vacancies on the staff, he said, but the bureau had planned to fill the posts if it had been given enough money. The jobs pay between $2,655 and $4,500. The cuts leave 72 enforcement men.

Last year the field men, as the enforcement agents were called, collected $5,000,000 in delinquencies, Busey continued. Of this, perhaps 10 per cent would have come in voluntarily when the taxpayers themselves discovered their errors, but the remaining 90 per cent had to be gone after.

The $5,000,000 was collected as a result of 34,555 separate investigations Busey said, and the agents made 27,059 other investigations which resulted in no collections.

The overall cost of collecting delinquent accounts has been seven per cent, Busey said.

The district produced a total of $209,000,000 in revenue for Uncle Sam last year.

BOYS WRECK AUTOMOBILE AFTER HIT-SKIP CRASH

Two Held After Fleeing Scene of Galion Accident.

Special to The Star

GALION, July 3—Alertness on the part of Patrolman George Cook led to the arrest of two Cardington boys who were involved in a hit-skip collision with another car at the intersection of South Columbus and East Walnut streets, here, Tuesday night at 9:30 o'clock.

Police said the boys left the scene after their car collided with one driven by Robert E. Hoffman of near Crestline. Officer Cook heard the crash and was able to get the license number of the car driven at a high speed on South Market street after they left the Columbus street collision. Another motorist who witnessed the accident chased the boys. They failed to negotiate a turn in the road, and at the County Line road crashed through a fence and into a house at the end of South Market street in Morrow county. The boys are being held for investigation by Morrow county authorities.

Meanwhile, parents of the boys posted bond for their appearance in Mayor William Amann's court, Thursday, on a charge of leaving the scene of an accident.

LABOR STUDY GROUP NAMED

Herbert Appoints University Head, Steel Executive and Labor Lawyer.

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., July 3—A university president, a steel corporation executive and a prominent labor attorney were named late yesterday by Gov. Thomas J. Herbert to round out the nine-member labor legislation study commission that will seek to provide a new labor regulatory bill for Ohio by next Jan. 1.

Herbert selected Howard L. Bevis, Ohio State university president, Thomas F. Patton, of Shaker Heights, executive vice president of the Republic Steel Corp., and Attorney William J. Corrigan of Cleveland to conduct a labor bill study with three members from both Ohio's senate and the house of representatives.

Created Last Monday

The commission was created by the legislature Monday just before final adjournment but the enactment does not take effect until about Oct. 1. Between now and Oct. 1 any studies made by commission members could only be accomplished on an informal basis because there is no authorization for expense money until the law becomes operative.

Herbert said that the post war program commission would be asked to make its facilities available for the labor study commission during the 90-day period, assembling information and material for the latter groups use if necessary.

A product of the controversy stemming from the Van Aken labor bills here a year through both house of the legislature and vetoed by the governor, the labor study commission represents the assembly's feeling that Ohio still needs some type of labor regulatory bill. However, Herbert has reserved the right to summon a special session to consider new legislation after the commission has made its report.

Relies on Taft-Hartley

In vetoing the Van Aken bills this week, the governor asserted it was unwise and unnecessary to enact legislation to fill the federal labor relations field, which he believed adequately covered all of Ohio's labor management problems.

The three state senators named to the commission are Roscoe H. Wolcott of Painesville, Fred G. Reinert of Hamilton and Carl D. Sheppard of Sidney. The representatives are Guy D. Hines of Darke, Gordon Renner of Hamilton and Benjamin F. Turner of Meigs.

Wolcott, Reinert and Sheppard drafted the substitute Van Aken bill which Herbert vetoed and which was voted for its enactment. Hawley and Renner supported the bill in the house, but Turner voted against it.

At Least It Was Different

THE QUICK impasse reached in Paris between the Kremlin's representative and the spokesmen for France and Britain at least was different.

Russia, instead of being paid the customary courtesy of being allowed to scuttle a meeting by slow stages, was pushed into an early dissent this time. Mr Molotov had no chance to walk out; he was pushed.

Such haste is disturbing at first sight, but the disturbance doesn't last long. No one aware of Russia's traditional relationship with Europe really believed it would cooperate in a move to bring major powers on the continent closer together for the purpose of qualifying as beneficiaries of United States aid. The gulf between Asia and Europe can't be bridged that easily.

In fact, the Kremlin's decision to send Molotov to Paris had raised the question of Russia's purpose. It couldn't be assumed that the Russians had switched from isolation to participation. Nor could it be assumed that the French and British had learned to take Russian good faith for granted.

The question was what the Russians had in mind and how long it would take to find out. In the past, the answer has filtered out slowly, sweetened and diluted by the amenities and courtesies of diplomacy. This time all that sort of thing was omitted. The Kremlin was invited to fish or cut bait. It will cut bait.

Tension in France

REPORTS of the thwarted rightist coup in France read like excerpts from a melodrama. Seized in a secret compartment in a chateau fireplace was a minutely-detailed "blue plan" for a march on Paris, with forged documents showing the Communists were about to seize power. The plan also is understood to have called for the assassination of General de Gaulle, with blame placed on the Communists.

Had any such coup been attempted, civil war certainly would have been the result. The Communist-dominated industrial districts would have risen to meet any challenge of the right. By the same token, any Communist attempt to seize power will result in an uprising by the elements behind the recent projected coup. So France remains in an uneasy status quo for the moment. As long as opposing elements counterbalance each other, that situation may continue.

High Waters

THE most recent flood to sweep down the Mississippi is just another in the long series which has brought periodic destruction to vast areas of the midcontinent. This time the crest came within a foot of the 1844 record, and damage, of course, far exceeded that of 103 years ago. Army engineers say certain combinations of high-water conditions will cause a Mississippi flood far greater than any yet seen, and unless preventive steps are taken it will be only a matter of time until that eventually occurs.

Levees and dikes aren't the long-range remedy for floods. Levees crumble and dikes swept away, with disastrous results. What are needed are networks of up-river dams and lakes on the Mississippi's tributaries so that the water flow can be regulated. Ohio's Muskingum conservancy district is a step in the right direction, but it is only one segment of the vast netwrok that is necessary.

Until the problem is attacked with a plan embracing the entire Mississippi watershed, the river will go on periodic rampages, with loss of life, property and crops. The house flood control committee has approved a $750,000,000 Mississippi valley program but it still requires appropriations to put it in effect. The expenditure will be more than justified, not only because it will curb floods but because of the attendant benefits of erosion prevention, water conservation and beautification.

Time To Decide

HAWAII comes closer to statehood than ever before. The house has passed the statehood resolution but the senate isn't likely to act on it this year. It wants to send over an investigation committee first, as the house did last year.

Now that the United States extends from coast to coast without any territories other than those isolated from the main body of our states, admission to statehood has become far more difficult than it once was. There are many opposed to giving statehood to an isolated territory. They forget, however, that Hawaii isn't as far from San Francisco as California was from New York a decade ago.

Hawaii has been seeking statehood almost 50 years. With regard to population and wealth it definitely qualifies, for it already outranks several states. Questions as to its loyalty were answered by its magnificent war effort. FBI and Army and Navy intelligence men assigned to the islands during World War II have only praise for what some have delicately referred to as "unassimilable elements." They proved just as assimilable as any other melting-pot races which help make the typical American.

If Hawaii ever will be entitled to statehood, it is entitled to it now. The only point in which it differs from the present states is that it isn't contiguous territory. That shouldn't disqualify it.

News Behind the News

By PAUL MALLON

Question Raised of Leaders' Control Over Unions.

WASHINGTON, July 3 — How much the big name leaders really control their union members politically is a question asked by recently glossed-over events. How much they represented the rank and file in their campaign against the reform bill (salient provisions of which were designed to increase member-authority against the leaders) is the striking, all-pertinent inquiry raised by these developments, to wit:

You can always get a crowd for any cause in New York, and the press had been metropolitan-minded in reporting the Madison Square Garden meetings and rallies against the union bill. But in a small steel town near Pittsburgh, where the entire community relies on the mill and adjacent factories, the story was different. More promotional ballyhoo than the town had ever before seen was prepared for a big mass meeting. Sound trucks paraded the streets. Large advertisements were in the newspapers. Petitions were circulated on street corners. The speaker against the congress bill was no less a national drawing card than Lee Pressman, counsel of CIO.

Yet a citizen who went that night reported no more than 150 persons by actual count attended the meeting, many of whom were outsiders there to put on the show. Pressman normally would have drawn several thousand. That union community just did not react to the national union leadership on that question.

Avalanche of Telegrams

You all will remember how Phil Murray and the national CIO-PAC directors decided to raise $1 from each CIO member to campaign against the bill, contemplating up to $8,000,000 for the effort. And you all noted the telegrams, letters, petitions and caravans which descended upon Washington to express "public" sentiment against the Republican congressmen who were voting for the legislation—a campaign calculated to cause them to change their votes.

The CIO-PAC has filed a report with the clerk of the house showing receipts of only $59,483 from Jan. 1 to June 1 this year while the bill was up. According to this official CIO-PAC listing, the 3½ to 5 million members of CIO hardly contributed enough to the political action organization to pay for the halls which were used for rallies. The report of contributions certainly indicates the CIO membership fell far short of what the national union leaders planned.

Now there may be something funny about this. Perhaps the anti-bill funds were funneled into other channels, although they were not supposed to go elsewhere. Probably local unions bore considerable expense without reporting. They may have borne all local expenses.

Nevertheless you must reach the conclusion that either the full expense was concealed, or else the rank and file did not contribute to back their leaders in this campaign. Probably both conclusions are correct.

Separate Reports

Separate reports are filed for quarterly periods. For example in the last quarter, the contributions came from 21 unions. Among the union contributions to CIO-PAC were: National Maritime $3,000 (a coastal leftwing union); Amalgamated Clothing Workers (considerably New York area) $3,000; Marine and Shipbuilding Workers $2,500; Electric, Radio and Machine Workers $3,000; United Rubber Workers $2,500, International Longshoremen's and Warehousemen's union $1,500; International Fur and Leather Workers $7,500. Nearly all these are the large metropolitan and eastern unions.

But counting the entire six months period since Jan. 1, the largest contributor was Phil Murray's union, the United Steel Workers, which gave CIO-PAC $16,000 (far less than $1 a head).

It is quite possible the locals spent 10 or 100 or more times as much as the CIO-PAC nationally, in ways which possibly never will be reported, because an audit of each local treasury in this respect would be a tremendous task if the figures were available for collection. Furthermore, the Taft-Hartley reform bill prohibits unions as well as corporations from making political expenditures to an election." CIO-PAC may have to realign, or it may now be realigned on a local basis which congress will have difficulty penetrating.

In any event, the Henry Wallace Progressive Citizens of America raised more than CIO-PAC nationally the first six months of this year—a tidy and surprising $117,246.

A Weak Child, It Still May Grow

The United Nations has just celebrated its second birthday.

Thus far its greatest difficulty has been in living down to its budget and up to its name.

Thanks to Rockefeller, it now has grounds for construction as well as for disagreement. For awhile, it looked as if it was going to be homeless as well as hopeless.

So far the delegates haven't been able to get together on anything except a lunch hour. As a consequence, the UN has been about as effective as a "No Smoking" sign in a ladies lounge.

Gromyko early adopted the habit of walking out when he couldn't have his way. He has thus gotten a few concessions and a lot of exercise.

The main trouble with the United Nations is that it inherited not only the League of Nations' responsibilities, but also its suspicions. You can't have a world police force until you can agree on who is going to drive the paddy wagon.

One can only hope, as the UN enters its third year, that it will develop into something besides history's most ballyhooed debating society. It doesn't give much promise, but it's all that we've got.

The Third Term Decision

Farley Tells of Crucial Conference with Roosevelt.

PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT called for the nomination of a vice president "in good health because there is no telling how long I can hold out," when in 1940 he finally told James A. Farley, then Democratic party chairman, that he would run for a third term.

In discussing the political maneuvering that led to Roosevelt's third-term decision, in the fourth of his five signed articles in Collier's on his break with Roosevelt, Farley today tells of his "first and last" conversation with the president on his health.

"The man running with me must be in good health because there is no telling how long I can hold out," Farley quotes the president as saying. "You know, Jim, a man with paralysis can have a breakup any time. While my heart and lungs are good and the other organs function along okay . . . . nothing in this life is certain."

"I was constantly baffled during the conversation," (which took part over a luncheon at Hyde Park) Farley declares, "by the way the president seemed to be saying first that he would not be a candidate, and then, by a slip of the tongue, that he was going to be a candidate."

(Almost a year before, Farley reported earlier, the president whispered to him that he would not run again.)

"An Important Chapter"

Farley reports that the president began the Hyde Park conversation, which he describes as "an important chapter in the political history of the U. S.," by saying "I still don't want to run for the presidency." Then, moments later, he "helplessly" asked, "Jim, what would you do if you were in my place?"

After advising Roosevelt that he was against a third term in principle, Farley says that he bluntly told the president: "In your position I would do exactly what General Sherman did many years ago—issue a statement saying I would refuse to run if nominated and would not serve if elected."

"Jim, if nominated and elected, I could not in these times refuse to take the inaugural oath," Farley says Roosevelt replied, "even if I knew I would be dead in 30 days."

"Then came the final shock," Farley writes. "We talked about convention procedure. 'By the way, Jim, the family is not going to the convention,' (the president) volunteered. 'Undoubtedly, I will accept the nomination by radio and will arrange to talk to the delegates before they leave the convention hall after the nomination.'"

"On the whole," Farley adds, "I never had any doubt that he made up his mind (to run for a third term) long before."

Sets His Resignation

At the same conference, Farley discloses, he set the date for his resignation as Democratic chairman and as postmaster general for Sept. 1, 1940.

Farley also reports that Cordell Hull, then secretary of state, was rankled in May, 1940, by Roosevelt consulting with Hull's subordinates and some foreign ambassadors, without consulting Hull.

"God, Jim!" Hull exploded after Farley had told of some of his troubles with the president, Farley reports. "You don't know what troubles are. Roosevelt is going over my head to Welles and Berle . . . . He's even going over my head to ambassadors. He's in constant communication with British leaders and others."

Navy Disposes Of Surplus

By The Associated Press

PEARL HARBOR—More than 90 per cent of the 2,500,000 tons of surplus Navy material stock piles scattered throughout the Pacific at the end of the war has been disposed of, the Navy reports. The bulk of the remainder will be sold to China and the Philippines.

Daily Bible Thought

Scarlet sinners often have become spotless saints, but indifferent people never will shine as the stars: "Her sins which are many are forgiven."—Luke 7:47.

BACK WHERE WE STARTED

From News of Other Years

TEN YEARS AGO

It was Saturday, July 3, 1937.

Repeated SOS calls from Aviatrix Amelia Earhart flashed over the Pacific more than 14 hours after the flier had radioed that her gas supply would last but 30 minutes. Miss Earhart and her navigator, veteran Fred Noonan, were generally believed to have come down in shark-infested waters within a radius of 100 miles northwest of Howland island after having overshot the tiny target on a 2,570-mile hop from Lae, New Guinea.

A horse-pulling contest at the fairgrounds, air circus and thrill show at the airport, baseball games and theater programs were in store for Marion on the July 4th holiday.

The wedding of Miss Dorothy Wheeler and Donald Ruhl took place in St. Paul's English Lutheran church with the pastor, Rev. E. H. Lehman reading the ceremony.

The Richwood Gazett was beginning its sixty-sixth year of publication. Established in 1872, it had been published continuously since that time.

Funeral services for S. L. Leeka, 80, whose death occurred the previous Wednesday, were conducted at his home on East Center street.

June, 1937 set a 35-year record for rainfall and was expected to be remembered for two severe electrical storms which flooded rivers and creeks in Marion county and Central Ohio, causing untold damage to crops. The month's total rainfall, which was just over seven inches, nearly equaled that of the 1902 record of 7.17.

TWENTY YEARS AGO

It was Sunday, July 3, 1927.

Marvin Jones, 21, and Earl Key, 19, of Marion were drowned in Indian Lake near Russell Point. Key, not an expert swimmer, slipped into a deep channel while wading in shallow water and Jones lost his life in a rescue effort.

Miss Mabel Marie Melton and Harold Wise were united in marriage at the home of the bridegroom's parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Wise on East Center street by Dr. B. L. George, pastor of Epworth M. E. church.

Miss Kathleen Carey and Merwyn G. Harruff were married in a cerefony performed by Dr. J. D. Darling, pastor of Wesley M. E. church, at his home on Orchard street.

Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Luellen entertained with a family dinner at their home on East Mark street in celebration of their forty-fifth wedding anniversary.

The Marion Athletics lost to the Toledo Olds Motors in a baseball game at Lincoln park, 10 to 7. Main pitched for Marion.

Mrs. Margaret Hackett, 71, died at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Henry Masters of Oak street.

"College Widow" Candidates

By RAYMOND MOLEY

THE danger facing all Republican presidential aspirants is the fickleness of the public. There is no logic in this, for those who are longest before the public and are most talked about are most accurately judged. But logic and reason have only a minor place in politics. Caprice is stronger.

People tire of heroes. Hollywood knows this and constantly seeks new skies for old stars—new roles, new settings, new authors. Politician candidates know it, too, and do what they can to find new issues and new stunts. They indulge in long silences to restore faded novelty. And organizations are formed to get ironclad pledges.

But those who have been in the running a long time are over taken by a creeping fate. The public tires of them after years of picking them over, talking about them and arguing their faults, foibles and virtues.

Also the Politicians

The politicians who ultimately choose candidates are average people, and they, too, reflect public weariness. There sets in a restless hunt for new names, new blood. And very often a candidate is named whom few have known and no one has carefully weighed.

This danger does not attend the nomination of a President in office. There is no speculation about the Democratic candidate this time. And the office he holds affords him infinite scope for publicity. His strength and weakness can be fairly accurately measured in advance.

But a Republican candidate's strength is hypothetical. It must be estimated against all sorts of indeterminate possibilities. One of the most menacing of those possibilities is that the Republican convention will present a candidate for whom public taste has flagged.

Dewey and Taft are the "college widows" of the Republican party. They have been around a long time. Dewey has been a much discussed national figure for more than 10 years; Taft, for the eight years since he entered the senate in 1939. They were the leading aspirants in early 1940. They canvassed the country for nearly a year before that convention. Their views were stated and restated, their personal characteristics evaluated from every point of view.

Surprise Proof

Dewey has, in addition, been a candidate. Another Dewey campaign would, to a superficial public, be a twice-told tale. The swing around the circle, the oratory, the response to the crowds and the issues themselves would be reenacted. There would be no novelty there.

Taft and Dewey hardly could surprise people if they should grow Lincolnesque beards or don powdered wigs. We know what they wear and eat and how long they sleep 'o night. We know the names of their children and where they go to school. If they have anything hidden, then millions of people have searched in vain. This amplitude of knowledge should be indispensable in choosing a president, but it is a handicap in seeking a nomination.

Roosevelt himself said to an intimate before his third campaign: "The country is tired of Roosevelts." It took a war to shake off that fatigue.

In the Field

Bricker, Warren and Stassen have been prominent for some years. Bricker was mentioned in 1940, but stepped aside for Taft. Since then, he has been quite acively discussed. Warren has been mildly discussed in the East, but could be more vigorously promoted. Although Stassen has been a national figure since 1940, he has the great advantage of a two years' silence while in the Navy. He is far from shopworn.

Eisenhower in civilian clothes, as president of Columbia university, will be something new. His change in status will certainly provide material for awakened interest.

Any of these days, new faces will emerge. But at the moment, the presidential market is dull.

The Once Over

By H. I. PHILLIPS.

Elevator Man and Wall Street

We do not get into elevators these days without buttoning our check book and making a firm resolve to be strong. The discovery that an elevator starter in a Wall Street skyscraper persuaded clients to invest more than a half million dollars with him because of his contacts with "big financial men," and that he had a desk and telephone in a big brokerage house, with nobody suspecting anything wrong, has us pretty scared when elevator riding.

Only yesterday an elevator man carried us two floors above where we wanted to alight, and unnerved us no end when he remarked cheerily, "It was just a slight rally, sir. Sorry."

And we are under the distinct impression when we asked for the 32nd floor in a downtown office building the operator whispered, "Do you want to make it thirty-two and an eighth?"

The judge before whom the Wall Street elevator starter was arraigned declared, "I can't believe my ears. This is something out of Alice in Wonderland. Didn't the stock brokers who gave him a desk and the bank which noted his deposits and withdrawals know he was an elevator man?" Judge, be yourself! You know, as we all do, that there is something about an elevator starter that makes cowards of us all.

As Elmer Twitchell put it today, "I will go as a general, quiz an admiral and give the third degree to a financial tycoon, but when it comes to cross-examining an elevator starter, nix. I wilt too easily."

Elmer admitted later that he had once invested funds with an elevator man. "Sure I knew he was only an elevator starter," he explained. "But he didn't."

"I attribute my weakness to the fact I never saw him out of uniform. It was one of the most imposing uniforms I ever saw and it did things for him. I knew him first when he was just an operator and he had a way of saying, 'Step to the rear of the car,' that had finality. Then, too, he was the resolute type. If he didn't care to stop for you at any floor he would shoot right by, and without a word. The way he could say, 'This is an express,' when you had stepped aboard for a local stop was withering.

"I never knew a man who had such power over me. No, he didn't propose that I invest money with him. It was my own idea. I figured he must be a big man. Certainly I felt like a mere nobody in his presence. Many times I took his elevator intending to buy certain stocks in my brokerage office. I would enter the car firm and confident. But he made me feel trivial and not to be trusted with important money matters. So one day I just asked him to take over my investment affairs.

"Was he surprised?" we asked.

"Not at all," replied Elmer. "In fact he took it calmly and refused to do it unless I presented references and recommendations from at least three responsible businessmen! Even then he kept me on a waiting list."

"Did you lose much?" we asked.

"Everything," said Elmer.

"What did you do?"

"Oh, I just switched to a local. And I was pretty lucky. The operator of this car had no market connections. All he pretended to advise me on were the races, real estate ventures and foreign exchange."

The Signals

Psychiatrists had a field day at the Boston trial of Douglas Chandler, who broadcast for Hitler as "Paul Revere," one group holding him crazy and another group sane. As the famous poem might put it:

Listen, my children, and you shall hear
Of the Nazi voice called "Paul Revere";
He said to his friends, "If the experts march
Have a lantern aloft in the belfry arch
As a signal light that will help a lot...
One if I'm nuts and two if I'm not!

Cotton Corners

By TRUMAN TWILL

Dear Nephew: Today the boy and I were watching one of those big road machines that lays down a ribbon of concrete in less time than it used to take to think about it. There's real efficiency.

In this country nobody ever is satisfied with what he has. He wants more—a better place to live, a better job, a better machine to build roads. And the ones who aren't satisfied will knock themselves out trying to get something better. Someone's probably thinking up a better road machine right now. We never let well enough alone. That's why we do things more efficiently. That's how we manage to have the world's highest standard of living. It hasn't been politics, or ideologies, or vitamins that made the United States efficient, but people who never were satisfied with what they had.

The funny thing is they weren't especially smart people. A lot of the things Americans are were thought up in other countries and all Americans ever did was apply them. The only thing different about Americans is that they're willing to try anything once. That's where American efficiency came from. We have all the modern conveniences not because we thought them up but because we had the gumption to do something about them. The best was none too good. Maybe there was something better—let's try this—and presto we had something better.

The only trouble we can have in this country, nephew, would be collapse of the people's desire for something better. Perhaps I'd better add that it would be collapse of desire to the extent that people wouldn't be willing to work as hard as they used to. Everybody wants something better, but it doesn't mean anything unless you work for it. See what I mean?

Don't spread this around, because it might be misunderstood, but I don't think all this has anything to do with ideologies, politics, the American way of life and so on. Even free enterprise, which is a man's right to mind his own business, isn't the secret, because when you think about it free enterprise is an effect not a cause. It's the only kind of system that will be tolerated by people determined to get everything they can get because the best is none too good.

We have free enterprise because people came to this country from all over the earth in search of a better deal for themselves and their families. They were in no mood to be told what they couldn't have. No sir. If they'd been satisfied to hold on to what they already had, they'd have stayed home. Remember, it wasn't American Indians who put this country on the map. It was foreigners looking for a better deal. They make the system, the system didn't make them—and if you don't think so read some of this country's early history.

We are doing two dangerous things—letting foreigners they can't come here any more because they'd be in our way and telling ourselves that we have so much we don't need to work hard any more, just go through the motions and Washington will provide. I hate to think what's going to happen to the efficiency that gave us this wonderful stuff if we ever start depending on Washington, or any other bunch of politicians promisers. Politicians don't produce anything not even ideas. They just keep their ear to the ground and when they hear the stampede coming they gallop off and yelp, "Follow me."

One Man's Opinion

By WALTER KIERNAN

There is discouraging news from Washington that one-third of us are dopes. . . . furthermore, you know some of them!

The bulletin of population research says 33 per cent of us are "backward and dull." . . . This will surprise those who never found dull people the least bit backward.

But I hear every congressman grabbed a copy of the report and checked it against his veto votes to find which third he stood with.

Our only comfort is in statistics from England that they also are getting duller. . . . It is estimated that in 100 years we will all be dopes together.

Still, after all these years of education we ought to be able to do better than 45 million Clifton Finnegans. . . . Two to each Archie.

CRUCIAL TEST FOR UN SEEN

Britain Tells Body To Solve Balkans Jumble or Go Home.

By The Associated Press

LAKE SUCCESS, July 3—Britain told the United Nations today that they might as well "tear up the charter—and pack up" if they could not settle the Balkans trouble as recommended by the United States.

Sir Alexander Cadogan, British delegate, lining up solidly with the United States proposal for a commission to watch the Balkans indefinitely, said in a statement to the security council:

"If we cannot apply proposals such as those submitted by the commission (the Balkan investigation commission) and now in the United States resolution, we had better tear up the charter—and pack up."

Cadogan referred to the recommendations by the investigating group and the United States proposal for the security council to set up a commission to remain indefinitely in the Balkans and try to smooth the differences in that unsettled zone.

"It seems to me that here we have a danger point," Cadogan continued. "It is just such a case as the United Nations was designed to meet. We have practical proposals, which can perhaps be perfected and elaborated. We must try them."

Cadogan accepted the conclusion of the Balkans commission holding that Yugoslavia, Albania and Bulgaria mainly were responsible for the Balkan disorders. This verdict has drawn strong denials from each of those three countries.

The Soviet Union has objected that the creation of a border watch commission to remain in the Balkans would hit the sovereign rights of those states.

"In these days," Cadogan answered, "Sovereign rights do not retain their pristine inviolability. In course of time many international conventions have been entered into, and each one of these detracts, in lesser or greater degree, from national sovereignty ... If it was desired to maintain sovereign rights inviolate, that ought to have been thought of (when the charter was drafted) at San Francisco x x x."

DECISION EXPECTED SOON ON REP. JONES

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, July 3—Whether Rep Robert F. Jones (R-Ohio) would be confirmed quickly as a member of the federal communications commission depended today upon his supporters' ability to induce a three member commerce sub-committee to return a preliminary report before nightfall.

Republicans and Democrats were divided about the prospects last night, but Senator Taylor (D-Idaho) echoed the temper of the opposition during yesterday's session when he declared that unless the nomination was "thoroughly threshed out" in the committee there might be "considerable delay when it is debated on the senate floor.

Senator Taylor also said that he had attempted to reach Senator Capehart (R-Ind) to verify a report that the subcommittee expected to rush Jones' nomination through sometime today.

Both Jones and Sen. John W. Bricker (R-Ohio) acted to quash charges made by columnist Drew Pearson last week that the Lima, O., congressman had been affiliated with the Ku Klux Klan and the Black Legion

Jones sent a sworn statement to the subcommittee, reiterating previous denials of the charges He also submitted an accompanying letter in which he wrote

"I believe that any competent lawyer, reading Pearsons testimony, would dismiss it instanter as the flimsiest hearsay and of no probative value. I intend in due course to take proper legal action with respect to it"

Bricker obtained senate permission to insert Jones' statement in the congressional record, plus letters from 17 Ohioans endorsing him. Bricker said he had known Jones since his graduation from law schol and considered him a man of the "highest character, with unquestioned integrity and proven ability."

Traditional July 4 Rites Planned by Millions

By The Associated Press

With sunny weather forecast for most of the nation, millions of Americans home and abroad will celebrate Independence day tomorrow with the traditional fireworks displays, parade, beauty pageants and speechmaking.

Festivities in Vicksburg, Miss., will mark that city's third observance of the Fourth of July as Independence day.

Until two years ago when the city first celebrated the date as Independence day, Vicksburg had remained in mourning on the Fourth—the anniversary of that southern city's surrender to General U. S. Grant in 1863.

This year General of the Army Dwight D. Eisenhower will be the honored guest at Vicksburg's Fourth of July Carnival of the Confederacy, and will lead the parade in the city's observance.

TO OPEN MT. VERNON PRISON HONOR CAMP

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O, July 3—An honor camp for 25 to 30 Mansfield reformatory prisoners will be reopened at Mt Vernon State hospital July 16, State Welfare Director Charles Sherwood announced today.

The camp and dormitory originally was established for Mansfield inmates, then used for trustees of London prison farm until 1941, when it was closed

Sherwood said personnel of the honor camp at Sandusky was being reduced as a result of increased legislative appropriations for personal service at the Ohio Soldiers and Sailors Home here.

Honor camp prisoners have been doing much of the work around the Sandusky home because funds were lacking to hire private labor, Sherwood explained.

The legislature appropriated $167,200 for labor for the balance of 1947 and $210,200 for all of 1948, compared with $105,550 in 1945 and $114,664 in 1946.

RAILROAD FURLOUGHS HINT STEEL LAYOFFS

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O, July 3—Increasing numbers of railroaders furloughed pointed today to probable steel mill layoffs and probable cuts in factory production by the time coal miners return to work

In the Youngstown mills of the Republic Steel Corp. 1,200 men already had been laid off and two blast furnaces were down, with another down in Cleveland Their coal supplies were estimated to be enough to last 10 more days The Midland, Pa., works of the Crucible Steel Corp said operations would be curtailed if the miners still were not working July 8

The Chesapeake and Ohio railway reported 384 men had been ordered laid off through July 7 but added that there was no shortage in sight for coal operating stocks.

The Nickel Plate had ordered no furloughs, but the Erie had laid off 200 and expected to send 500 more home over the weekend

At Cincinnati a Chesapeake and Ohio railroad spokesman said the road was "cutting right and left—there is no freight business." He said passenger business might be affected later.

A Louisville and Nashville spokesman there said the road had laid off 150 men, mostly in the mechanical department. The Norfolk and Western office here reported it had dispatched no coal trains through Columbus since Monday and had laid off 86 here since the coal stoppage began The spokesman said only 90 cars of coal were loaded along its lines Tuesday, compared with a normal 4,000, and headquarters in Roanoke, Va., reported 975 men furloughed in the entire system, which taps the country's richest coal fields.

HIGH STANDARDS OF TEACHING REQUESTED

By The Associated Press

OXFORD, O., July 3—The national conferences for improvement of teaching was told today that teachers themselves must help prevent incompetent members of the profession from sabotaging the education of American youth.

In a keynote address, prepared for the opening of the two-day conference, Miss Mary Titus of Huntington, W. Va., president of the department of classroom teachers of the National Education association, said teachers are challenged by the present crisis in education to give youth the high type of education that the American people expect.

"The American people have great faith in the potentialities of education," Miss Titus declared, "and we can't let them down."

Declaring that the "teachers themselves must help prevent incompetent members of the profession from sabotaging the education of youth," Miss Titus, who is a junior high school teacher at Huntington, said that while teaching is "considered a profession, it isn't as high as it ought to be.

"Teachers should be required to have background and training comparable to that of physicians, dentists and lawyers," she declared. "It is apparent that the time required to qualify as a teacher must be extended"

Miss Titus said that anyone who "doubts that teaching is a profession should consider that it is one that makes all professions possible"

Some 300 members of the profession gathered here for the conference which is sponsored by the National Education association.

STEELWORKERS VOTE TO BYPASS NEW LAW

By The Associated Press

PITTSBURGH, July 3 — The United Steelworkers union, largest in the CIO, has voted, in effect, to ignore the new Taft-Hartley labor act passed by congress over President Truman's veto.

In triple-pronged action, the union's 42-man executive board yesterday agreed

1. Not to recognize the new labor board to be set up under the law, but to "seek to resolve all issues between our union and the employers through bona fide collective bargaining and other peaceful means wherever possible."

2 That the union will not commit itself x x x to no-strike obligations enforceable by harassing law suits."

3 To follow the international CIO policy, adopted last week, of refusing to "comply with unconstitutional limitations of political activity which are written into the Taft-Hartley bill"

The general executive board of the CIO United Electrical Radio and Machine Workers of America, in New York, advised its local unions, representing more than 600,000 workers in 1,300 plants, "to submit no issue" to the new labor board.

The 23-member board said in a statement that "it shall be UE policy to submit no issue to the determination of the Taft-Hartley board, nor in any other manner, upon union initiative, to step among the snares and pitfalls that the NAM (National Association of Manufacturers) authors of the law have spread for labor's feet."

FLOOD DAMAGE SET AT $500,000,000

By The Associated Press

GRAND TOWER, Ill, July 3—The fight between man and river continued unabated south of St Louis today in an effort to save remaining levees while army engineers and soil conservators estimated flood damage along the raging Mississippi and its overflowing tributaries in Missouri, Iowa, and Illinois to be at least $500,000,000.

R H Musser, regional conservator for the U. S. soil conservation service, said at Milwaukee that a survey compiled from field office reports and aerial reconnaissance showed that enough soil had been washed downriver to cover 325,000 acres six inches deep

Meanwhile, at St Louis, the river fluctuated between the 103-year high of 40.3 and one tenth of a foot less Harry F Wahlgren, U S meteorologist, said, a gradual decline was expected in the next 48 hours High water from the Missouri and Illinois rivers was keeping the Mississippi high, he added

Grand Tower itself was cut off from land following breaks in the Degognia levee and several other communities were partially inundated. A small section of the Chester, Ill., business district was under water.

Food supplies were being brought here by boat and most of the 1,000 residents expected to remain since most of the town was located on high enough ground to escape the river

Residents of Dupo, Ill., eight miles southeast of St Louis, apparently had won their fight to save the town from the flood water.

By The Associated Press

CLEVELAND, July 3—Three chalices valued at more than $3,900 have been stolen from a safe in the sacristy of St. Philomena's Catholic church in suburban East Cleveland, police reported today.

Priests of the parish said the safe containing six chalices was locked following a wedding mass Tuesday morning Rev. Ira Still opened the vault yesterday and found only three of the chalices

Police said there was no marks of violence on the safe, and said they believed the thief had known the combination of the safe or was able to "manipulate" the lock in order to open it easily.

Independence Day

Tomorrow we celebrate the 171st Anniversary of the birth of this nation. It finds us emerging slowly from the after effects of victory in the world's greatest war.

This particular Independence Day differs from all others that have preceded it. It is a time for every American to pause and consider the new position that this nation holds in the world of today—and tomorrow.

God grant us the wisdom to meet our responsibilities, and to avoid in any honorable way possible the horrors that another war would bring.

SHANKLIN WINS TWO HEATS IN MARION STAR STAKE RACE

Marion Entry Just Misses Repeat Performance in 2nd Division

By W. T. BUCHANAN

Don Miller, up behind Shanklin, a bay horse sired by Volomite, was the top purse winner last night in the second program of the Marion Little Grand Circuit races.

He drove his entry to two heat victories in the first division of the mile dash in the :19 class pace, The Marion Star stake, before an estimated 3,500 at the fairgrounds track.

Although Shanklin won the biggest share of the $1,000 purse, Buddy Patchen, entered in the second division of the same stake was the horse that drew the cheers of the grandstand spectators. Buddy Patchen, driven by Jimmy France and owned by Dr. J. G. McNamara, through a bit of bad luck missed taking both heats of his division.

Set Back to Tenth

In the first heat of the second division he came in first but was set back to tenth by Presiding Judge W. E. Mercer of Plain City for interference on the first turn.

Shanklin set the best mile time of the program with his 2:07.3 in the first heat of his division while Buddy Patchen's first heat in the second division was a 2:10. In the second heat Shanklin went the mile in 2:15.2 while Buddy Patchen went the mile and one-sixteenth second heat in 2:19.4.

In the last heat Shanklin was well back as the horses entered the back lane of the first circuit but moved into second place early to take first in the stretch and win by three lengths. In the first heat he never was worse than second. He moved out ahead in the back lane to win handily.

In the second division of the race Buddy Patchen was never out of the lead in either heat. When he was set back to last place in the first heat the victory went to Red McKlyo, a chestnut gelding driven by Harold Boring. The Boring entry finished fourth in the last heat.

20 Horses Entered

The stake race was run in two divisions with 20 horses entered. The four heats provided the top entertainment of the eight-dash program.

Besides Buddy Patchen another Marion-owned horse took a first place last night. Katherine Ripper, owned by Mrs. C. M. Retherford and driven by Charles Norris won first place in the maiden trot, a 9/16 mile dash. Guy Zane, owned by D. Earl of Marion and driven by Ernest Earl finished fourth and Guy Expert, owned by Dr. C. G. Smith and driven by Paul Brown, finished sixth in the same race. Sir Mac I Capp, owned and driven by C. Sims of Waldo finished eighth in both heats of the second division of the stake race.

In the :27 class pace for 9/16 of a mile Drexella, owned by E. Earl and G. A. Wright of Marion and driven by France finished fourth. High Falutin, owned by Dr. McNamara was sixth and Junior Abbe, owned by Lud Nestle of Bucyrus and driven by Ed Dunwoody was eighth. High Falutin was driven by Russell Wickersham of Marion, a young driver just breaking into harness racing. He is the son of Lou Wickersham, Marion auctioneer and horseman who has been acting as marshal for the races. He leads the horses to the starting post mounted on a beautiful white-maned sorrel saddle horse.

Gorden Hessell, the Milwaukee Adonis will tangle with the rough Fenton. Both matches are for the best two out of three falls with a ninety minute time limit.

CRIPPLED, HITLESS, PITCHERLESS BUMS HOLD DOWN 1ST SLOT

Minus Durocher and Reiser, Brooklyn Doing the Baseball Incredible.

By The Associated Press

Leave it to Brooklyn to do the incredible.

With Burt Shotton, a fill-in for the exiled Leo Durocher at the helm, with only two .300 hitters, without the services of Pete Reiser, their best player, and with only one dependable pitcher, Ralph Branca, Brooklyn today is leading the league by one game.

Perhaps it is because of their indomitable spirit, their all-out hustle and fight, their ability to capitalize on breaks, plus, of course, the existence of three fine key players in Ed Stanky, Pee Wee Reese and Dixie Walker on the squad.

Another reason is their ability to beat the Giants, especially on their home soil.

The Brooks fell on three Giants pitchers for nine runs in the fourth inning last night and went on to a handy 11-3 victory. It was a walk and an error that started them off.

Ralph Branca, Brooklyn's biggest winner and all-star selection, won his 11th game with a seven-hitter and fanned 10.

The Boston Braves dropped a 6-5 decision to the Phillies in Philadelphia, losing in the ninth when Skeeter Newsome beat out a bunt, ran to second on Harry Walker's sacrifice and scored when catcher Phil Masi let one of Anton Karl's pitches get away.

The New York Yankees drubbed the Washington Senators 8-1 at the Yankee stadium. Allie Reynolds held the Nats to five hits including Stan Speece's ninth home run. Joe DiMaggio walloped his 10th home run for the Yanks.

Scoring a run in the ninth inning the Philadelphia Athletics defeated the Red Sox at Boston 7-6. A single by Sam Chapman scored Barney McCoskey with the winning run. Pete Suder homered for the A's and Ted Williams, Bobby Doer and Birdie Tebbets hit four baggers for the Red Sox. It was number 14 for Williams.

Helped by homers by Wally Judnich and Jeff Heath, Jack Kramer had an easy time in pitching the Browns to a 7-1 victory over the Chicago White Sox in St. Louis.

Cubs Shut Out Newark, 9-0, Sabens Hurling

Newhouser Humbles Tribe; Cleveland Signs Negro Star

By The Associated Press

CLEVELAND, July 3—Al Gettel, currently the most effective hurler on the Cleveland Indians' pitching staff, takes the mound today against the Detroit Tigers Dizzy Trout as the Tribe renews its battle for a first division berth.

Manager Lou Boudreau extended his hitting streak to 17 straight games, but the Tribe's rally fell short last night as the Redskins tumbled into fifth place, .615, by the Tigers' southpaw Hal Newhouser.

Rookie Bryan Stephens was shelled from the mound in the midst of a four-run Detroit outburst in the first inning.

Eddie Lake's sixth homer, George Kell's two-run triple and three singles gave Detroit its 4-0 margin.

George Metkovich's two-run double followed a pair of walks in the fourth for Cleveland's first scores.

Boudreau, who hiked his major league-leading batting average to .361, led off in the eighth with a single and moved around on Eddie Robinson's one-baser and a pair of walks. With the bases loaded and none out, Jim Hegan sent a long fly to tally pinch-runner Hal Peck, but the rally died.

A crowd of 56,359 fans swelled the stadium on "Mel Harder Night," donating a truckload of gifts and a 1947 automobile to the 20-year dean of the Indians' hurling corps. Indians President Bill Veeck gave Mel a $2,000 check.

The Tribe become the first American league club to sign a Negro player last night when Larry Doby, star second baseman of the Negro National league Newark Eagles, was purchased for an undisclosed sum. He will join the Indians Saturday.

Doby, who has slammed 13 homers, 16 doubles and eight triples while compiling a .458 batting average with Newark this season, returned from three years' Navy service last year to spark the Eagles of the Negro National league championship. Newark then defeated the Kansas City Monarchs in the Negro World Series.

"The acquisition of Larry Doby * * * is a routine baseball purchase—in my mind," Boudreau declared.

"Creed, race or color are not factors in baseball success, whether it be in the major or minor leagues," Lou continued. "Ability and character are the only factors."

Commercial Whips McMillen To End First Round Undefeated

In a make-up game in Commercial Softball league No. 2, Commercial Steel defeated McMillen Feeds, 7-5, to finish the first half of the season with an unscathed record of seven wins.

A home run by Francis Reeder in the fifth inning with two on aided the Steelers. A triple by Mel Lehner scored two runs in the fourth. Hillis, McMillen pitcher, allowed the winners only five hits but walked eight men which caused his downfall.

In other games last night Osgood defeated General Excavator, 5-3, Co. M socked Standard Oil, 10-7, and Tong Implement walloped DeMolay, 20-2.

Reds' Big Inning Sinks Bucs, 8-6

By The Associated Press

PITTSBURGH, July 3—It took just one big inning and the Cincinnati Reds had an 8-6 victory over the cellar-dwelling Pirates.

Thirteen Redlegs went to the plate in the wild fifth frame last night. Cincinnati pushed over eight runs during the rally and the Pirates counted four markers in their half.

With Pittsburgh leading 2-0, Bert Haas started the fifth with a liner, which shortstop Billy Cox muffed. Babe Young singled and Augie Galan drew a walk before Eddie Miller clubbed a rousing three-run double.

The scoring spree went on from there. Haas, Galan and Young each getting singles as they batted a second time.

The Pirates shelled starter Kent Peterson from the mound in their half and his successor, Harry Gumbert, had rough going in that frame but then ran off four hitless innings to gain credit for the victory.

Rocket Total of Foe-Blanking Innings to 22 Straight Frames

By DON C. BURTON

The Cubs got another fine pitching job last night at Lincoln park and for the second time in a row shut out the Newark Browns. This time southpaw Jim Sabens applied the whitewash and the Cubs put 16 hits together and won 9-0 before 1,471 fans.

The nine goose eggs last night added to the same number racked up by Jitts Lawrence Tuesday and four in the latter part of Sunday's game with Zanesville made 22 consecutive innings in which Marion opposition has failed to score.

In racking up his fifth win against one loss, Sabens allowed the Browns only six hits and struck out 11 while walking only four. In the 22 innings of scoreless opposition, the Cub hurlers have allowed only 14 hits and struck out 25 and have given only nine free tickets to first. This kind of pitching will make the Cubs the best club in the league as the run making and defensive play are tops already.

In the 16-hit Cub attack, John Smith, Marion's top-notch hot corner man, collected three and Manager Nelson Burbrink also added a trio to his league-leading total. Smitty drove in three runs and Burbrink and Bob Shuford two each.

Sabens was not only hurling superbly but he also collected two singles and scored twice. He got the game's first marker in the third.

Zanesville Hurler Flings One-Hitter

By The Associated Press

Another sign that the Ohio State league's pitching corps is beginning to round into form appeared last night when winning pitchers limited the opposition to only 18 hits in the circuit's four games.

Murray Kane, a Zanesville newcomer, was the individual star. He twirled a one-hitter against Lima's Terriers, winning 7-2. Both runs came without a hit and the only Lima safety was an infield bingle by third sacker Don Slater.

Richmond's Kenny St. Pierre defeated Springfield's Giants, 3-2, with a bit of luck. St. Pierre gave up two runs in the second inning and then whitewashed the Giants until the ninth. His teammate, Bob Verrier, third baseman, collected his second triple of the game off Joe Greco, driving home the tying and winning runs in that frame.

At Muncie, Ind., Dayton's Indians were held to six hits by Ed Post, a lefthander, who hurled the Packers 11th victory in the last 13 starts.

SOME STOCKS MOVE UP, OTHERS STUMBLE

NEW YORK, July 3—Selected stocks continued in the recovery vein of today's market while many leaders stumbled over light selling.

Slowdowns were frequent after a fairly active opening. Boardrooms were sparsely occupied. Irregularity ruled near the fourth hour.

Union Pacific was one of the few pivotals to make a 1947 high. Weason Oil jumped several points on a pleasing nine months' report. Zenith Radio pushed up on word the company was working on a new type of television. Resistant were Chrysler, General Motors, Goodrich, Montgomery Ward, Sears Roebuck, Woolworth, Southern Pacific, Publicker Industries, Consolidated Natural Gas, Standard Oil (NJ) and Nickel Plate common and preferred.

Intermittent laggards included Bethlehem, U. S. Rubber, Boeing, Consolidated Edison, Kennecott, American Can, Du Pont, Union Carbide, J. C. Penney, Chesapeake and Ohio, Great Northern Railway and Texas Co.

RADIO NEWS

Sunday radio's "Blondie," Penny Singleton, has become a backyard theater manager. She and her husband have just built a miniature stage with sets, audience seats, curtains and arch at the rear of their Van Nuys, Calif., home for the use of their youngsters, Dorothy and Susan—and the theater's name, of course, is DorSue.

More than 3,000 youngsters turned out for the opening and dedication of the Lou Costello Jr. Youth Foundation playground and clinic in East Los Angeles recently. The $380,000 project was financed by Bud Abbott and Lou Costello, the Thursday night NBC show comedians, in memory of Lou's young son, who was accidentally drowned in a pool at the Costello home in 1943.

LOVE'S PERILOUS PATH

By ADELE GARRISON

I WAS grateful indeed for the respite Dr. Twitchell's command had given me.

I sat down in the nearest chair after swallowing the pellet he had handed me and drinking the glass of water, and tried to relax as he had commanded.

"Shut your eyes!" he then ordered. "If you fall asleep, I'll waken you at the end of ten minutes. But above everything else, you must relax."

I obeyed him, and although I did not fall asleep I felt my nerves straightening themselves out, either because of the pellet or because his personality for the moment was dominating mine. And when he said, 'You may open your eyes now, Mrs. Graham. I can see you are not asleep," I sat up in my chair with the feeling that some one with a comfortably warm iron had smoothed out all the kinks in my nerves.

"Thank you, Doctor," I said warmly. "I feel a million per cent better."

"Well, that's good interest on the investment of a capsule!" he said, with a comfortable smile. "Now, if you feel up to it, will you tell me the things Mr. Bickett wishes me to know?"

"I think you probably have guessed the first fear Mary had," I said.

Not Sufficient Cause

"That she was losing her memory completely," he said in matter-of-fact tones. "Yes, that was not hard to surmise. But it did not seem sufficient cause for her awful depression and her evident determination to take her own life."

"It wasn't," I said tersely. "Here are the facts:"

As quickly and compactly as possible, I then told him of the quirks in the mentality of Mary's mother, and the belief Dicky, her mother's brother, had that the queerness was due to an injury at the time her youngest child, Roderick, was born.

Then I told him of Mary's obsession that the quirks were due to insanity that she had inherited, and of her fear that she would become a helpless imbecile.

"But," Dr. Twitchell interrupted, "will she not take her uncle's word?"

Wouldn't Believe Him

"She says she wouldn't believe him on a stock of Bibles," I told him, "and she will not believe her grandmother either, saying that any good mother would lie for her daughter."

"Then we'll have to trace the case medically," Dr. Twitchell said.

"If we have any luck we won't have to wait for that," I said, and told him of Harriet Braithwaite, whose word Mary would accept. I detailed the conversation I had had with her, saying that we expected an answer one way or another on the following morning.

"That will settle the question finally," I said. "Mrs. Bickett says—but I will let her tell you her opinion herself."

"This simplifies matters," he said. "What we have to do now is to get her over the present hump. Will you ask Mrs. Bickett to come in here, please, and will you tell Mrs. Veritzen that I had to advance my call to her because I have a sudden emergency summons to the hospital?"

Both Messages At Once

"I'll deliver both messages at once," I said, and went directly into the bedroom, where I found Katharine engaged in giving Mary a vigorous alcohol rub.

"I'll pinch hit for you on that job," I told her. "Dr. Twitchell is in the sitting room, and wishes to see you."

"From his manner," I went on quickly, at Mary's start of surprise, "I think he wishes to apologize for having come so early. He said something about having an emergency call to a hospital and so having to advance this visit."

"I'll go in and hold his hand," Katharine said, and Mary giggled nervously.

"And I'll take over here," I said. "Get over on your face again, Mary, and don't wriggle. I'm a vigorous rubber."

"I know your style of old," Mary said, and then, as Katharine closed the door she turned to me again and looked me squarely in the eyes.

"Come clean!" she adjured me. "What's the real reason the old doc's here so early. Am I worse?"

Church at Caledonia To Conduct Revival

Evangelistic meetings have been planned by the Caledonia Church of Christ, beginning Sunday, with Rev. F. S. Dowdy of Lancaster as speaker, and Mrs. Evelyn Lloyd Griffith of Dover, Ky., as song leader. The meetings will continue through July 20 and will be at 8 each night. Sermon subjects of Rev. Dowdy include "Jesus, the World's Savior," "The Atonement," "The Everlasting Gospel," "The Church," "The Resurrection," "The Greatest Memorial," "Near to the Kingdom," "The Unutterable Sadness of Jesus," "Christ, Our Only Hope," and "What It Costs To Be a Christian." Mrs. Griffith, known as a concert soloist, will sing familiar hymns and religious numbers, as well as lead congregational singing. She has been doing evangelistic singing since 1940. For two years she was pastor's assistant at First Church of Christ in Canton. Rev. Dowdy has been in evangelistic work for a number of years.
